

Weekly wrap up

Friday, 7 July 2011

					Home	Away
8.40pm	 West Coast	vs.	 Geelong	Patersons Stadium	$2.05	$1.75

Saturday, 8 July 2011

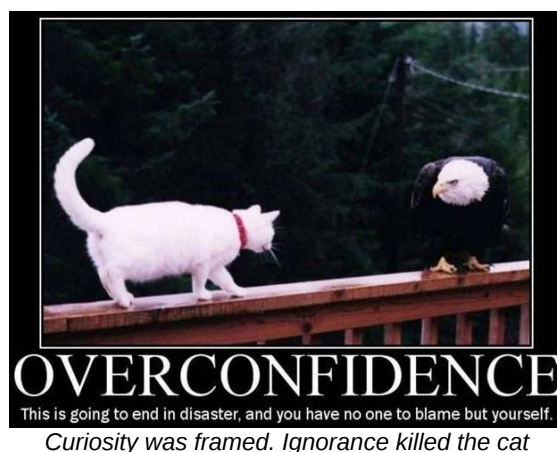

2.10pm	 Hawthorn	vs.	 Brisbane	Aurora Stadium	$1.08	$7.00
7.10pm	 Essendon	vs.	 Richmond	M.C.G.	$1.50	$2.50
7:10pm	 Gold Coast	vs.	 Sydney	Metricon Stadium	$5.00	$1.15

Sunday, 9 July 2011

1.10pm	 Collingwood	vs.	 North Melbourne	M.C.G.	$1.08	$7.00
3.10pm	 Port Adelaide	vs.	 St. Kilda	AAMI Stadium	$3.75	$1.25
4.40pm	 Western Bulldogs	vs.	 Carlton	Etihad Stadium	$3.30	$1.30

Byes:  Adelaide
 Fremantle
 Melbourne

15 games, still 52 points...Geelong lost again?! Crap. Means I need another new image for this week:

Tuesday saw the 16th E.J. Whitten Legends Game and along with it came two very interesting AFL rule interpretations. The first was when Sam Newman's infringement, of putting all 24 players plus runner Shane Crawford onto the ground, was overlooked. The second was when Ryan Fitzgerald's winning snap for goal was disallowed for being deemed after the siren. In actual fact, the rule for determining whether a kick is after the siren occurs not when the ball is kicked, but when the ball drops from the player's hands. Oh well, it's a charity match, and Victoria beat the interstaters, so all is well.

Saturday saw another milestone for 2011: Gold Coast's running tally crashing through the lowermost vertical scale of my original graph, -800 points! And with Gary Ablett out for two matches with a minor knee injury and the Suns set to face Collingwood in Round 18, I'm expecting this line graph to plunge faster than Gillard's approval rating.

Meanwhile, I continue to extend my lead on you puny tipping mortals. Just to dispel any allegations: I submit my tips to George each week and tend to submit them before anybody else submits their tips to me. If I was going to cheat, surely I'd have a few weekly prizes by now. Paul on the other hand, doesn't even submit tips, and he's still been able to claim a Second Chance entry for two weeks running as he and David capitalised on the 5 home team victories this round.

Lookalikes

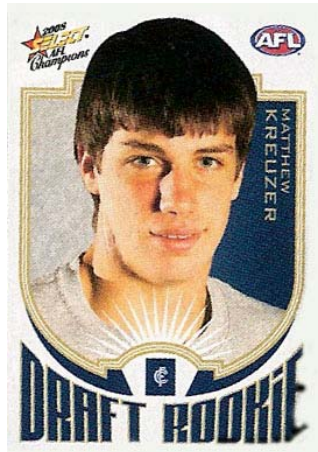

A few classic lookalikes this week:

Lewis Roberts-Thomson and Spike (Rhys Ifans) from Notting Hill

Warren Tredrea and some stock photo of a guy yelling into his phone

Draft Rookie Matthew Kreuzer and Lloyd Christmas from Dumb and Dumber